The new location gives Heat Bank Haliburton County a total of four wood depots including Minden, Wilberforce and Abbey Gardens. HBHC also offers a fuel program for those who are at risk of running out in the winter.

Establishing wood banks in strategic locations in Haliburton County is a key part of the overall support strategy to make emergency wood accessible to those who need it. It also allows county residents and organizations convenient locations to donate wood that may otherwise be taken to landfill or left on the ground. Tax receipt options are available for hardwood donations.

"Community Living Haliburton County is excited to partner with this program," Teresa Jordan, executive director explains, "The Victoria Street School was purchased with a vision that this central location would serve the entire community in many important ways and become a place of gathering."

Heat Bank Haliburton County was launched this spring and is a joint effort amongst like-minded people and organizations to help low-income and vulnerable households who find themselves running out of fuel and have no other resources.

"This program is one of the only ones of its kind in North America," said program co-founder and operator of the Minden Wood Bank, John Teljeur. "Not only does it offer donations of fuel in whatever form needed but it also gives people additional opportunities to get help through A Place Called Home."

A Place Called Home works directly with those who need help, providing intake assessments and offering referrals and ongoing support as needed.

"We are most excited about creating a program that will bring people together," says Tina Jackson of A Place Called Home. "This is one of the reasons that a partnership with agencies such as Community Living is so exciting for us. Much the same as living in rural areas can increase one's sense of isolation, living with a developmental disability can restrict opportunities for social engagement. So we are very much looking forward to bringing everyone together to increase feelings of inclusion. Helping others is not only benefiting those who receive the help but also the volunteers."

Heat Bank Haliburton County is accepting donations of hardwood and money to purchase fuel. All money raised goes to providing fuel for those who are in need.

More information is available on the HBHC website www.heatbankhc.ca or by contacting Tina Jackson at 705-306-0565 or tina@apch.ca.

Rhubarb RESTAURANT

When newcomers discover the Rhubarb Restaurant, there's always delight. They know they've found a place that offers a delicious and memorable dining experience.

Co-owner Terri Carl describes the Rhubarb as upscale casual. But the consideration put into each meal is anything but casual.

"We're committed to using only the freshest ingredients and as local as possible," she says. "Our greens are picked every single day."

That devotion to quality is also evident in each meal renowned Chef Christoff Carl creates. "Every single item he makes is from scratch from beginning to end," Terri says. "The meals take a little longer because they are made to order."

The menu is varied, unique and interesting. "We have everything from a really good house made hamburger to duck poutine to trout."

Patrons can also enjoy wines hand-picked by sommelier Marcus Carl or partake of other drinks, including beer from their own Boshkung Brewing Company micro-brewery. There's live music on the weekends too.

The Rhubarb caters events and welcomes private functions such as weddings and other gatherings. Terri advises patrons to make reservations or arrange catering in advance. You can reach her at 705-489-4449 or email info@rhubarbhaliburton.com. She also encourages you to visit www.rhubarbhaliburton.com to see why Chef Christoff Carl has been delighting Haliburton's diners for 30 years. Follow Rhubarb on Facebook or Twitter.

Rhubard is located at 9201 Highway 118 in Carnarvon and is open 7 days a week from 11 am to 10 pm.

Behind the lens

Whether you're a cottager, a full-time resident or a visitor to the Highlands, you are surrounded by glorious opportunities to make outstanding photographs. These are memories of people, places and events to share with others, to display, or for your own enjoyment.

Photography is a pastime that can be enjoyed by young and old alike. The incredible growth of digital photography has put a camera in virtually everyone's hands: from a cellphone to a DSLR, everyone has the ability to make exceptional photos. This series of articles look at ways to make your images more compelling.

In this column, we look at some tips and techniques that you can use to improve your photos. We try to include tips that can be used by everyone, regardless of what kind of camera you have, and some for the more advanced user.

It's August. Fall is coming.

If you're like me, fall in the Highlands was the reason you moved up here. It doesn't get any better than that. And then you stayed for, wait for it, "winter." And you discovered that winter was just as beautiful as fall.

Winter in the big city is about slush and dirty snowbanks and bone-chilling damp cold and too many clothes and cars that won't start and cold, endless nights. Winter in the Highlands is about, well, many of the same things but here the snow is white and the cold isn't so bad and there's something about sitting in front of a crackling fire while the wind whistles outside, rosy-cheeked children, fun with your sled or your ATV or your skis... have I made you long for winter?

I didn't think so. But hey, if you have to winter in Canada, is there any place you'd rather be?

Fall is about those crisp days when it's a joy to take a breath and when the colours are so powerful it's almost painful to look at them. It's about stopping at the side of the road for a picture, then getting back in the car, driving around a bend and OMYGAWD I need to stop again! Yes, you have to put your boat away, yes you have to get that firewood stacked, but fall is the time to be outdoors. And no mosquitoes! Fall is when you wish your friends and relatives were there to share the joy with you. The best you can do is take some pictures.

There are tricks to getting better fall pictures. A lot of common sense, but a few specific things you can do to improve your shots. Remember, your pictures have to be (a) in focus and (b) exposed correctly. Everything else is secondary. But the little things do make a difference.

A couple of years ago, I wrote an eBook about shooting fall pictures. Now I'm going to share it with you for FREE. All I ask of you is to subscribe to my free newsletter and to not share the eBook directly with others (it's about building my readership. I know you understand). So if you want my Fall Colours Guide for free, go to www.photography.to/subscribe.htm.

I'll be running some workshops, field trips and possibly photowalks this fall. That's my way of sharing this outstanding season with you!

Rain, rain….

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

In case you haven't noticed, we've been getting a little rain lately. If I recall correctly, it started in early May and has only stopped on the days I couldn't leave my desk. Like most people – and unlike ducks, moss and most salads – I miss being warm and dry. But unlike ducks, moss and most salads, I know that when life hands you lemons it's time to make lemonade – which is easy in this weather since you can collect your water directly from the sky.

All this is to say, rain is not necessarily a bad thing. In fact, if you maintain a positive attitude and take advantage of it, it can be your friend.

Here are the best 10 things about this summer of rain.

1. No one thinks I'm crazy anymore for building my ark. Oh sure, there was a time when people would wonder about me, especially when I asked how long a cubit was or if I could keep their hamster since I needed two for when the rains came hard. But not now.
2. Laundry on the go. If you are like me, you don't really have time to do laundry. So why not try this little trick? Before you go for a walk on a rainy day, sprinkle a little detergent on the clothes you are wearing, especially around the collar and on the major stains. If you are wearing delicate clothes, spin gently as you walk. Otherwise really shake and turn, until all the stains are out; have your friends pat you on the back too. Rub against rocks to remove the worst stains.

   Needless to say, you need to plan your laundry walks on the days when there is enough heavy rain to create a really good rinse cycle. And try not to wear whites and colours on the same walk.
3. Saying things like, "You know I really wanted to cut the grass today." Let's face it; we don't get to pretend to be sincere about that enough.
4. Sell that spare umbrella. One thing about this summer, it's a seller's market for umbrellas. If you stand on the corner during one of the more violent deluges, you can pretty well get any price you want – unless everyone is doing laundry, of course.
5. No car wash expenses. OK, I know what you are thinking. You're probably mumbling that you've seen my SUV and I never wash it anyhow. That's true, but I was planning on starting this year. Lucky for me we're getting all this rain.
6. Full cisterns. If you have a cistern – perhaps alongside your perambulator and telegraph – it's full.
7. A shorter walk to the lake. With water levels rising as they have, the walk the lake is closer than ever.
8. More fish habitat.
9. Save money on gas. If these rains keep up, we'll be able to save money on gas by canoeing everywhere.
10. The opportunity to start your own bottled water company. All you need is the bottles.

They say into every life a little rain must fall. I don't know about you, but I believe I've lived a full life this summer.

Last day on the job

Haliburton Home Hardware's Ray Langdon speaks with a long-time customer on his last day on the job on Wednesday, Aug. 13. Langdon, who is looking forward to spending more time on hobbies such as photography, recently sold the business to Jerry Walker. He'll always remember the staff fondly, he said. Langdon represents the third generation. His family owned the hardware store for more than 50 years. /Darren Lum
